SECTION 4 - REFLECTION

ChatGPT performed better because it included a clear section of contact information, which Deepseek vaguely included, format-wise. The main differences were that ChatGPT had a logical structure and proper timelines, while Deepseek had redundant sections and omitted critical details. For my final resume, I merged ChatGPT's formatting with Deepseek's specific job titles, and applied the same color scheme. I learned that LLMs ignore styling instructions unless output in HTML or something else and I must explicitly request contact info, dates, and section exclusions to avoid missing or redundant content.
